RV's may be the greatest way to see the country, but they're often the least stylish. We know that some camping enthusiasts really love the "country" look that's common to campers: oak cabinets, ornate window finishing's, and lots of floral patterns. However, we suspect that a sizeable portion of the camping population does not want to spend their vacation in an RV that looks like it was decorated by Paula Dean's grandmother.

We show you how to remodel your RV with the style of a boutique hotel room for less than $2000 (money that you'll easily make back should you ever sell your unit). Complete with beautiful photos, the detailed instructions ensure that you'll be inspired and empowered to make your unit look like new, regardless of the age.
