This electronic book on CD-ROM presents a complete reproduction of major U.S. Army study reports on the Iraq war. The first report, On Point, covered the initial invasion of Iraqi Freedom through May 2003; the second, released in June 2008, studies the campaign against the insurgency through January 2005. ON POINT II: TRANSITION TO THE NEW CAMPAIGN: THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM, MAY 2003 - JANUARY 2005, Dr. Donald P. Wright and Timothy R. Reese. On Point II is the US Army's first historical study of its campaign in Iraq in the decisive eighteen months following the overthrow of the Baathist regime in April 2003. The book examines both the high-level decisions that shaped military operations after May 2003 as well as the effects of those decisions on units and Soldiers who became responsible for conducting those operations. The authors, historians at the US Army's Combat Studies Institute at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, based this account on hundreds of interviews with key participants and thousands of primary documents. Critical chapters in this book address the decision to disband the Iraqi Army, detainee operations (including the incidents at the Abu Ghraib prison), reconstruction efforts, and the Army's response to the growing insurgency. At the core of On Point II is the dramatic story of how after May 2003, the US Army reinvented itself by transforming into an organization capable of conducting a broad array of diverse and complex "Full Spectrum" operations. This was the new campaign that confronted American Soldiers beginning in May 2003 as they strived to create stability in Iraq. ON POINT: THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN OPERATION IRAQI FREEDOM, Gregory Fontenot, E.J. Degen, David Tohn. * Discusses the first truly joint combat operation of the United States, with the services successfully integrated in the battlespace to a degree of mutual support and cooperation that would have been impossible just five years before. Details the major elements in that evolution in joint warfare as they played out in the deserts, mountains, cities, and skies of Iraq. In addition, as a bonus, there is a complete reproduction of the historic "Duelfer Report" prepared by Charles Duelfer, entitled "Comprehensive Report of the Special Adviser to the Director of Central Intelligence on Iraq's WMD Weapons of Mass Destruction" and issued on September 30, 2004. Duelfer writes: "Iraq has endured decades of collapsing hopes and accumulating tragedy. It is numbing to consider the waste of so much human and resource potential. Saddam's ambitions conflicted with the region and the international community... Had the events of 11 September 2001 not occurred, Saddam might well be still in power. But, he deeply miscalculated one last time and curtailed his own leadership. Saddam, his family, and cronies rose, enriched themselves, became corrupt, combusted, and collapsed. Saddam's huge commitment to weapons technology consumed the best and brightest and led them to nothing but destruction. The Fertile Crescent was turned into a land filled with risk and chaos. In many ways the arms inspectors have merely been leading the way in exploring the decay that Iraq became, and, indeed the corrupt systems that grew parasitically on Iraq as it decayed. The goal of this report is to provide facts and meaning concerning the Regime's experience with WMD."
